SAKO UNVEILS A SELECTION OF NEW RIFLES FOR 2018

Sako, the leading Finnish manufacturer of world-renowned rifles starts the year off with several eagerly awaited product launches at this year's NSSF Shot Show in Las Vegas, January 23-26.

The Sako product range has always grown based on the actual needs of the hunters and shooters worldwide. This tried and true philosophy also guided us with our latest additions: The Sako 85 Finnlight II, Sako 85 Carbon Wolf and TRG 22/42 A1. We are now ready to shine a spotlight on these rifles.

The Sako 85 Finnlight II and Carbon Wolf represent the lightweight segment of our rifles. The Finnlight II has a fiberglass and carbonfiber stock while the Carbon Wolf has a stock made entirely out of carbonfiber. Both stocks are made with RTM technology, which guarantees the perfect structure and excellent dimensional tolerances.

The TRG 22/42 A1 in turn is a versatile update, which takes these rifles even closer to our flagship model, the TRG M10. Among the features the full length M-LOK fore-end, 30 MOA canted picatinny rail, full aluminum chassis and folding stock with a sturdy two point attachment are all factors which ensure world-class performance and perfected precision.

We demand perfection, so naturally there has been no room for compromise during the development and production of these new cutting edge firearms, said Mr. Raimo Karjalainen, General Manager at Sako Ltd.
