TIKKA PRESENTS ITS FIRST RIMFIRE RIFLE, TIKKA T1X MTR

Tikka is about to launch Tikka T1x MTR, a brand new rimfire rifle to the acclaimed product range at this year's NSSF SHOT Show in Las Vegas, January 23-26.

The new Tikka T1x MTR rifle is designed from the ground up to combine the capabilities needed for both range shooting and small game hunting in rough terrain. Tikka T1x is equipped to handle various shooting tasks in all weather conditions, and it's based on the T3x centerfire platform to offer the shooter the best possible user experience. The market has high demand for a rimfire with an excellent price-quality ratio.

"Responding to the high demand and requests from the market, we're now proudly presenting the first ever Tikka rimfire rifle. The brand new T1x meets Tikka's high quality standards for both usability and precision, which makes it a natural fit for the Tikka rifle family" commented Mr. Raimo Karjalainen, General Manager at Sako Ltd.

Tikka T1x MTR is compatible with the majority of T3x accessories, which allows the shooter to adapt the rifle according to their personal preferences. Also, the action of this rimfire rifle shares the same bedding surfaces and inlay footprint with the T3x centerfire rifles for an optimal experience. The cross-over profile barrel was engineered so that the rifle would offer the benefits of a heavier barrel without much added weight. We're truly proud of the Tikka T1x MTR. It's a rimfire rifle that's worthy of the revered Tikka name.
